Friendly PSA: AOC is not just a “Latinx bartender from the Bronx with no political experience” but actually an establishment opp with a spooky past who was put where she is to subvert America’s growing Leftist movement. THREAD 📌👤

“Sandy” Ocasio went to Boston U (which costs $55,000/year) and graduated cum laude with a double-major in international relations & economics (a path that many CIA folks have taken before her). Oh, she also interned for Senator Ted Kennedy - like all political outsiders do 👍

Ocasio-Cortez was born into a Catholic family in the New York City borough of the Bronx on October 13, 1989, the daughter of Blanca Ocasio-Cortez (née Cortez) and Sergio Ocasio-Roman.^[9] She has a younger brother named Gabriel.^[10] Her father was born in the Bronx to a Puerto Rican family and became an architect; her mother was born in Puerto Rico.^{[11][12][13]} Ocasio-Cortez lived with her family in an apartment in the Bronx neighborhood of Parkchester^[12] until she was five, when the family moved to a house in suburban Yorktown Heights.^{[12][14]}

Ocasio-Cortez attended Yorktown High School, graduating in 2007.^[15] In high school and college, Ocasio-Cortez went by the name of "Sandy Ocasio".^[16] She came in second in the microbiology category of the Intel International Science and Engineering Fair in 2007 with a research project on the effect of antioxidants on the lifespan of the nematode Caenorhabditis elegans.^{[17][18]} In a show of appreciation for her efforts, the MIT Lincoln Laboratory named a small asteroid after her: 23238 Ocasio-Cortez.^{[19][20]} In high school, she took part in the National Hispanic Institute's Lorenzo de Zavala (LDZ) Youth Legislative Session. She later became the LDZ Secretary of State while she attended Boston University. Ocasio-Cortez had a John F. Lopez Fellowship.^[21]

After graduating from high school, Ocasio-Cortez enrolled at Boston University. Her father died of lung cancer in 2008 during her second year,^{[22][23]} and Ocasio-Cortez became involved in a lengthy probate battle to settle his estate. She has said that the experience helped her learn "first-hand how attorneys appointed by the court to administer an estate can enrich themselves at the expense of the families struggling to make sense of the bureaucracy".^[24] During college, Ocasio-Cortez served as an intern for U.S. Senator Ted Kennedy in his section on foreign affairs and immigration issues.^[25] She recalled, "I was the only Spanish speaker, and as a result, as basically a kid – a 19-, 20-year-old kid – whenever a frantic call would come into the office because someone is looking for their husband because they have been snatched off the street by ICE, I was the one that had to pick up that phone. I was the one that had to help that person navigate that system."^[25] Ocasio-Cortez graduated cum laude^[26] from Boston University in 2011 with a Bachelor of Arts degree in both international relations and economics.^{[27][28][21][29]}

As an undergrad, AOC “studied abroad” in Niger to volunteer with women’s health (trying to get them to have less kids, Bill Gates shit). You can find blogs she wrote there (if you dig a bit) but here’s a video she filmed on her trip 🙄 youtu.be

Her trip to Niger was through the Niamey International Development program, which is funded by USAID (a known CIA front). And whaddya know, shortly after she left Niger, there was a Western-backed coup that overthrew Niger’s government 🤔

A coup d'état occurred in Niger on 18 February 2010. Soldiers attacked the presidential palace in Niamey under weapons fire at midday and captured President Mamadou Tandja, who was chairing a government meeting at the time.

Niger program to resume in fall

March 18, 2010 12:00 am

by Daily Free Press Admin

After suspending study abroad in Niger for the spring 2010 semester, Boston University has decided to resume the Niamey International Development program as scheduled for the fall 2010 semester.

Boston University and the International Programs department said it will be keeping a close eye on the conditions in Niger to ensure that the country, which recently underwent a coup, will still be safe for students in the fall.

‘Cuban Twitter’ and Other Times USAID Pretended To Be an Intelligence Agency

Foreign governments have long accused the U.S. Agency for International Development of being a front for the CIA or other groups dedicated to their collapse. In the case of Cuba, they appear to have been right. In an eye-opening display of incompetence, the United States covertly launched a social media platform in Cuba in 2010, ...

HUNTS POINT — When Bronxite Miguel Sanchez, 33, launched his animation and design firm three years ago, he estimates he spent more than $30,000 on computers, software, staff and services.

Riverdale resident Mandi Susman, 43, had to keep her full-time job at the Metropolitan Museum of Art last year to offset the $22,000 she spent getting her online marketing consultancy off the ground.

And Alexandria Ocasio-Cortez, 22, has shelled out $1,000 since April simply to rent space while she researches her business idea — a children's book publishing company devoted to telling positive stories set in The Bronx.

Ummmm just because someone had a photo-op with Senator Kirsten Gillibrand in 2012 doesn't mean they can't identify as a "anti-establishment political outsider" in 2018 🙄
 Please check your privilege chile 😏

And damn, how lucky was Netflix when they decided to make a documentary about "political outsider" candidates in 2018 that followed AOC's grassroots campaign and unprecedented political upset (directed by a Yale alum 🧠👁️) 🙄😏

Knock Down the House is a 2019 American documentary film directed by Rachel Lears.^[1] It revolves around the 2018 congressional primary campaigns of Alexandria Ocasio-Cortez, Amy Vilela, Cori Bush and Paula Jean Swearengen, four progressive Democrats endorsed by Justice Democrats and Brand New Congress who ran in that year's midterm elections.^{[2][3]}

Knock Down the House

Official poster

Rachel Lears is an American independent documentary filmmaker. She is the director of Knock Down the House, a documentary film about four women running for Congress in the 2018 midterms, including Alexandria Ocasio-Cortez.^[1] The film premiered at Sundance Film Festival in January 2019,^{[2][3]} was sold to Netflix for $10 million ^{[4][5]} and was released on May 1, 2019.^{[6][7]}

^ Life and education

Lears graduated from Yale University in 1999, with a BA in Music before earning an MA in Ethnomusicology, an Advanced Certificate in Culture and Media, and a PhD in Cultural Anthropology from New York University. Her doctoral dissertation, titled Between Two Monsters: Popular Music, Visual Media, and the Rise of Global Indie in 21st Century Uruguay and published in 2012, focuses on the first generation of young Uruguayan artists to come-of-age with digital media.^[8] Lears is married to Robin Blotnick, and they have a son.^[9]

What's that? AOC doesn't mind someone with the "life experience" of being a CIA agent becoming a politician? As long as their "story" is good? Lol... interesting... 😏

0:39 / 0:39

No wonder she ended up giving a lot of money that she raised from socialists and her stans to fellow Democrats with military or intelligence backgrounds. They all must've all had really inspiring stories! 😏

Beneficiaries of Ocasio-Cortez's financial support include Elissa Slotkin (a former CIA agent), Conor Lamb (Marine captain and military prosecutor), Tom Malinowski of New Jersey (an assistant secretary of state under Barack Obama), Abigail Spanberger (CIA operations officer) and Elaine Luria (Navy commander), both of Virginia, Mikie Sherrill (Navy pilot in the Middle East) and Andy Kim (adviser to the US military command, Afghanistan and Iraq director for the National Security Council), both of New Jersey and Jared Golden of Maine (Marine infantryman).

Remember all the bullshit she pulled during Bernie's campaign? Taking forever to endorse him... speaking out against "toxic Bernie Bros" and condemning his Joe Rogan interview? Etc etc. Well, mission accomplished 🤔👍🇺🇸

Remember when conservatives tried to do a “gotcha” on her with this dancing video? Pretty weird how that’s the only oppo they could find on her, and none of this spook shit that I’m posting 🧑🏻👹 Cuz the AOC psyop is such a gift to both “sides” (of the same empire) 🍷

“But there’s no way AOC is an establishment plant! What about all her feisty drama with Nancy Pelosi?” Ah yes, Pelosi, the politician who has never used performative theatrics before 🍷🍷

AOC's "radical" Green New Deal seems pretty sus after she attended the Met Gala with a Bronfman worth $100 million who's a green tech entrepreneur 🌳👤 No wonder he's cool with getting taxed! He'll get all that money back in gov't contracts thru AOC's revolutionary plan 🌱🌿🍷

Benjamin Zachary Bronfman (born August 6, 1982) is an American entrepreneur and musician. Bronfman is a strategic advisor and principal investor with Algae Systems, a carbon capture project and an associate managing director at Global Thermostat, a bio-fuel company. He was a member of rock band The Exit (going by the name Ben Brewer) and he is a member of the music collective Teachers and co-founder of the Green Owl record label.

Benjamin Bronfman

This is all to say that AOC isn't "stupid." All this shit is calculated and she's brilliantly accomplishing her assignment of wrecking the movement that Bernie started. She's an easy punching bag for conservatives and great at dividing the "left" with her shenanigans 🍷

Nearly half of the population of the West African country of Niger is facing starvation from one of the worst famines in its history. With 80 percent of its land area covered by the Sahara Desert, the nation already has the world's lowest Human Development Index. The current famine has created a devastating humanitarian crisis. On Sunday evening, September 19, BU students are sponsoring a concert to raise money to provide food relief.

Here's the lady who ran AOC's Niger program and presumably mentored (+ recruited?) her... Now a Federalist Society goon 🥲 Definitely a spook 🕸

Meredith McGehee

Executive Director, Issue One

McGehee is one of the nation's foremost experts on Congress and ethics in politics and has been described as one of the most in-the-know persons about lobbying, money-in-politics, media policy and the Washington, D.C. political scene. She has been recognized eleven times by The Hill newspaper, including 2018, as one of the top nonprofit grassroots advocates in Washington. McGehee is frequently sought out in the national print and television news media as an honest broker and veteran policy expert who holds both parties accountable to the same standards. She is a regular speaker at universities and organizations around the country. Prior to serving as executive director of Issue One, she spent decades working across the ethics and political reform landscape both in Washington and in states around the country. She also worked on Capitol Hill for six years and served as a Peace Corps volunteer in Niger, West Africa and is a Phi Beta Kappa, cum laude graduate of Pomona College in California.

Ah and who can forget that the whole way AOC's campaign started was because her brother unknowingly recommended her to a casting call for new Democratic politicians from an org founded by a Harvard alum and Silicon Valley dude 🍷

ALEXANDRIA OCASIO-CORTEZ'S HISTORIC WIN AND THE FUTURE OF THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY

Come November, Ocasio-Cortez is almost certain to become the youngest woman ever elected to Congress. Will her democratic-socialist identity push the Party to the left?

socialists. After Sanders failed to overtake Clinton, some of his staff started an organization, called Brand New Congress, with the aim of recruiting candidates in the Bernie mold to run for the House and the Senate. For the B.N.C. activists, Sanders had shown that a non-corporate, “small dollar” campaign based on a left-wing agenda could win, and not only in traditionally left-leaning districts.

At first, B.N.C. wanted to field candidates for every congressional seat. One of the group’s founders, a Harvard graduate and former Silicon Valley techie named Saikat Chakrabarti, went on “The Rachel Maddow Show” to launch the effort. Soon, applications flooded the B.N.C. Web site, eleven thousand in all. One of them came in the fall of 2016 from Gabriel Ocasio-Cortez. He was writing on behalf of his older sister. Alexandria smiled and recalled that her brother had asked her if he could send in the form and, on a lark, she said O.K. “But I was also working in a restaurant!” she said. “I mean, it’s one of these things where it was, like, ‘Eff it. Sure. Whatever.’ ”

In late December, 2016, Isra Allison, one of B.N.C.'s lead organizers, called Ocasio-Cortez just as she was leaving an anti-pipeline demonstration in Standing Rock, North Dakota. "She told me what B.N.C. was about," Ocasio-Cortez recalled. "I was just, like, 'O.K., I'm listening.' By that time, they had policy plans, and Sanders was the political shorthand." Ocasio-Cortez e-mailed Allison a video of a speech she had made at Boston University on Martin Luther King, Jr., Day and a description of her work as a waitress: "Having that small business experience opened my eyes to TONS of issues—from labor law, to immigration. . . ."

In her early conversations with Allison and others at B.N.C., Ocasio-Cortez was unnerved. "Where did I get off?" she said. "I mean, I'm going to tell people that I, as a waitress, should be their next congresswoman?"

We stand in solidarity with the Cuban people and condemn the suppression of the media, speech and protest.

We also call for an end to the U.S. embargo and additional Trump-era restrictions that are profoundly contributing to the suffering of Cubans.

Statement: Rep. Alexandria Ocasio-Cortez on Demonstrations in Cuba

"We are seeing Cubans rise up and protest for their rights like never before. We stand in solidarity with them, and we condemn the anti-democratic actions led by President Díaz-Canel. The suppression of the media, speech and protest are all gross violations of civil rights. We also must name the U.S. contribution to Cuban suffering: our sixty-year-old embargo. Last month, once again, the U.N. voted overwhelmingly to call on the United States to lift its embargo on Cuba. The embargo is absurdly cruel and, like too many other U.S. policies targeting Latin Americans, the cruelty is the point. I outright reject the Biden administration's defense of the embargo. It is never acceptable for us to use cruelty as a point of leverage against every day people."

She went to school to be a CIA agent. AOC majored in International Relations at Boston U. Their Intl Rel program was started by CIA agent Arthur Hulnick as part of the CIAs recruitment program per the CIAs own website

Two especially hospitable academic settings—Boston University and Georgetown— made possible the first running of courses devoted strictly to intelligence. When Arthur Hulnick arrived in Boston in 1989, a survey course on intelligence already was being offered by a professor who was a navy reservist Hulnick knew and had helped with suggestions about the course. “Why don’t you teach it?” Hulnick was asked, “You’re the expert.”^[12] Hulnick agreed and began for Boston University what would become perhaps the best curriculum of intelligence courses in the United States. At Georgetown, in the spring of 1994, I taught a course purely on intelligence, entitled “CIA and the Changing Role of US Intelligence.”

There's a rumor that you're actually a groomed CIA operative that was placed in a position to win your congressional seat in order to pretend to be a progressive voice but actually just sow discord to prevent any real progress on policy. Can you confirm that's all false?

That one's actually true 🏆

Lol jk!!! my comms staff is gonna kill me for that one 😂😂 of course that's false

I understand for some people it's easier to believe this fantasy than believe that a waitress and daughter of two parents who themselves were born into extreme poverty could actually get elected to congress. But I did. And I work so others can too. And it's working!
